PROMOTIONISTS WORK TERMED OF LITTLE BENEFIT

Supervisor Hatch Opposes Donation From City as Being Class Legislation

"I can't get a dollar of the tourists' money. I know many other people that cannot. But few people in this community can get it," said Supervisor Hatch last night, and on those grounds he objected to the payment of $250 a month to the Promotion Committee. He characterized the act as "class legislation" and as such "a grave breach of trust." In two of the longest talks he has made in board meetings since his appointment he declared that the average resident of the city obtained no benefit from the tourists attracted here by the work of the Promotion Committee. "If it was endeavoring to induce settlers to come here, to make their homes here, I would not deny that their work was for the benefit of the whole city," he said. "But as it is, a very small number of people reap any benefit from such endeavors and those reap a very large benefit."

Terma Law "Queer"
He quoted the statute passed by the last legislature enabling the board to appropriate money for the Promotion Committee and called it "a very queer sort of a law." Then he asserted that as the work of the committee was for the benefit "of but a very few interests in this town—and it isn't necessary to name them here"—appropriation of it comes directly under the constitutional prohibition of class legislation. He dwelt at length on this feature and finally asked that the board submit the question, through its attorney, to the supreme court. After a deal of haggling it was decided to leave the whole question to the attorney himself. William T. Carden, the second deputy, was present and he turned over his copy of the session laws and read the statute Judge Hatch had quoted a few minutes before. The judge smiled and did not remind him that it was not the law, but the constitutionality of the law, that was in question. Supervisors Logan and Larsen both stood with Judge Hatch in the discussion of the $1500 item in the budget, and Larsen alone voted with him.

REPUBLICANS TO DRAFT PLATFORM IN JULY SESSION

Fall Campaign Being Launched With Convention Date Set For July 17

Hawaii's fall campaign was preliminarily launched yesterday afternoon when the Republican territorial central committee held a meeting, fixed the date of the Republican platform convention and appointed a committee to take charge of convention arrangements.

The platform convention will meet on Monday, July 17, in Honolulu, and the committee on arrangements consists of William Thompson, chairman; A. W. Eames and A. D. Cooper. The meeting place and all preliminaries are to be settled and the committee was given full power to act.

Since the direct primary has done away with the party nomination conventions, this platform convention is the most important Republican gathering of the biennial period. A territorial platform is to be drafted and from this convention are selected the central committee, the executive committee and the party chairman, who is chairman of the central committee.

DIFFERENT SITES ARE FAVORED AT JOINT MEETING

Unanimity of opinion as to where it would be best to locate the proposed typical Hawaiian Village was markedly lacking at the joint meeting held late yesterday in the capitol building. Chairman Charles R. Forbes of the public works department favored the Ala Moana site; Land Commissioner B. G. Rivenburgh thought a valley site would be better, while Mrs. F. J. Lowrey of the Outdoor Circle said she preferred Maake Island in Kapiolani park.

After discussing the proposition from various angles for two hours, the conferees from various civic bodies in this city decided to hold a later meeting with Land Commissioner Rivenburgh and Chairman Forbes, after the latter returns in six weeks from his vacation.

YEAR'S BUDGET IS CONSIDERED BY SUPERVISORS

The city's budget for the coming half year was flying through the board last night. It is substantially as was that of last year, with a few cuts here and a few raises there. About a score of items in the financial program were held up for further consideration on request of one or another of the members of the board, but the majority of them have passed first reading.
